Supported by  SAFESTART®

Best Overall Safety Culture APPLICATION

The winner of the Best Overall Safety Culture Award will demonstrate an excellent culture of safety, as evidenced by strong employee engagement, organizational leadership and management buy-in, effective program evaluation and improvement strategies, and a comprehensive process for hazard identification and assessment. Submissions must include examples of effective communication, education and training and company's investment in safety.

Applicants for this award can represent either an entire company or a particular facility, location, or division within a company.

To complete the application for the Best Overall Safety Culture, please complete the application on pages 2–4 and submit your completed application along with the following materials to EHSDAawards@blr.com:

- A company/organization logo in PNG or JPG format
- 3 to 5 examples of relevant materials that showcase your safety culture, at least one of which is training or educational in nature

Safety program materials may include:

- A copy of your injury and illness prevention program, accident prevention plan, or equivalent
- Employee training materials and training records
- Completed job hazard analyses and/or risk assessments
- Company safety communications

Note: The above is not an exhaustive list; it is merely intended to give an idea of the types of materials that could provide effective support to an application. Feel free to submit other materials you feel will be helpful in demonstrating the quality of your safety culture. Please make sure to remove/redact any personally identifying employee information from submitted materials.

Thank you for your submission, and good luck!
